ITEM NO.

1. Invocation

PUBLIC HEARINGS

2. Hearing to consider designation of the Lambeth-Gossett House, located at 923 Granville Road, Charlotte, North Carolina, including the interior and exterior of the house and garage, and the land upon which they sit, as historic property.

The Historic Properties Commission bases its judgment on the following considerations:

(1) The Lambeth-Gossett House, erected in 1916, is one of Charlotte's finest examples of Bungalow-influenced architecture.

(2) It is one of the older homes in the most imposing section of Myers Park, Charlotte's elegant streetcar suburb that was developed by the Stephens Company and designed by John Nolen and Earle Sumner Draper.

(3) The owners of the house, Charles E. Lambeth, Laura Cannon Lambeth, and Benjamin B. Gossett, have played prominent roles in the civil and business life of Charlotte and its environs.
After several notifications without response, it is assumed that the property owners have no conflicts with historic designation.

The Department Review Process revealed no conflicts between the historic designation and City projects. The North Carolina Division of Archives and History concerns in the proposed designation.

Based on the current assessment and tax rate, the amount of deferrable taxes would be $2,270.84.

Recommend adoption of an ordinance designating the Lambeth-Gossett House and the grounds upon which it sits as historic property.

3. Hearing to consider designation of the Jones-Garibaldi House, located at 223 East Park Avenue, Charlotte, North Carolina, including the interior, exterior and the land upon which it sits, as historic property.

The Historic Properties commission bases its judgement on the following considerations:

(1) The Jones-Garibaldi House, built in 1894, is one of the oldest homes on East Park Avenue, the most prestigious residential district in the oldest portion of Dilworth, Charlotte's first streetcar suburb.

(2) C. Furber Jones (1866-1903), the initial owner, was a prominent business executive in New South Charlotte.

(3) Joseph Garibalid (1864-1939), the second owner, was a leading merchant and civic leader in New South Charlotte.

(4) The house is one of the finer local examples of the Neo-Classical Revival style and was most probably designed by Charles Christian Hook, an architect of local and regional importance.

(5) The house is on a corner lot at the very edge of the residential section of Dilworth and, therefore, occupies a place of substantial importance in terms of the townscape of the neighborhood.

After several notifications without response, it is assumed that the property owner has no conflict with historic designation.
The Department Review Process revealed no conflicts between the historic designation and City projects. The North Carolina Division of Archives and History concurs in the proposed designation.

Based on the current assessment and tax rate, the amount of deferrable taxes would be $1,418.19.

Recommend adoption of an ordinance designating the Jones-Garibaldi House and the grounds upon which it sits as historic property.
