CLOSING OF SEABOARD RAILWAY CROSSING AT PECAN AVENUE PROTESTED.

A delegation of citizens from the Chantilly section appeared before Council to protest the closing of the Seaboard Railway crossing at Pecan Avenue upon the completion of the overhead bridge on Independence Boulevard.

Mr. Lucius Stanley, owner of a Drug Store at East 7th Street and Pecan Avenue, presented a petition which he stated contained the signatures of 1,000 residents of the area. He stated the closing of the Pecan Avenue crossing would be injurious to business and an inconvenience to residents.

The Reverend W. A. Gamble, Pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, presented a map indicating the increase in distance via the overhead bridge to East 7th Street; he stated Independence Boulevard does not touch street level until it reaches Lamar Avenue, a distance of one-half mile farther than by the present Pecan Avenue crossing. He also stated he understood the City had an Agreement with the SAL Railway Company relative to closing the Pecan Avenue crossing and wished to know what the agreement was. The Resolution adopted by the City Council on May 12, 1948 was read, and contains the provision, in part "that when the overhead bridge across the tracks of the SAL Railway Company is completed and open for traffic the grade crossing of Pecan Avenue across the tracks of the said SAL Railway Company just west of the junction of Rowan Ave. and Pecan Ave. be closed to traffic effective as of said date". The City Attorney advised the State Highway Commission has authority to request railroad companies to eliminate grade crossings; that the Highway Commission did request the City of Charlotte to pass the resolution above referred to, and the resolution may be tied in with the contract between the State Highway Commission and the SAL Railway Company.

Councilman Boyd, who stated he was in favor of leaving the crossing open unless there is some contract that is binding upon the Council, recommended that the City Attorney go into the matter with the City Manager and give the Council a full report so as to whether the crossing may be kept opened or must be closed. The Council concurred in the recommendation.

Councilman Daughtry suggested that it might be well to survey the area with the view of opening some of the streets from the Chantilly Section to East 7th Street.
