RESIGNATION OF COUNCILMAN S. R. JORDAN FROM THE CITY COUNCIL.

Councilman S. R. Jordan submitted his resignation from the City Council by the following statement:

"This is the day that I have regretted to see because it is my last with you in this official capacity.

Having removed my residence from the City of Charlotte to the County, and as no longer a qualified elector it becomes necessary for me to relinquish my place on the City Council.

After nearly six years as a member of this panel, it isn’t an easy thing to say goodbye. It’s especially hard for me because -- well, I’ve enjoyed it. There were, of course, minor irritations. There have been days when the telephone rang with constant complaints, and nights when many an hour had to be given over to the group meetings or the visiting delegations. I’ve worried and wrestled with many an official problem -- and sometimes, even, with my own conscience -- and on more than one occasion I’ve wondered just what in the world impels a man to run for public office.

And now that it’s all about to become, for me, just a memory -- I think I know what it is. It’s the other times -- the pleasant, satisfying times when you know that you’ve helped make a right decision or joined in performing a useful service. It’s the time of the deed accomplished -- the policy set, the contract awarded, the street opened, the duty done.

It’s the time, too, of grateful acknowledgement -- the friendly greeting of a colleague, the approving nod of a department head, the warm smile of a City employee or an occasional taxpayer who knows, as the others know, that you’ve done your level best to do what was right, and what was just, and what was essential.

We’ve made a lot of what the newspapers call “progress” during the last six years. We’ve done a lot to upset the older pattern of a sit-still economy and catch up on a backlog of accumulated needs. Much of that progress can be credited to the foresight of the planners, the courage of the recent Mayors, the co-operation and assistance of local leaders and municipal department heads, the support and encouragement of the people themselves, and certainly -- to the zeal of the governing boards.

I like to think that I, in some small way, contributed a useful share.

So, in this moment -- and looking back at the results -- I liked it. It was, in many respects, the revelation that makes the round life.

In leaving it, I do so reluctantly but from a certain necessity, knowing that I leave it in exceedingly competent hands. I am grateful to all of you for the help you have given me, and for the strength you have lent in the tougher spots along the way. From here on out, you can be sure at least of one constant supporter -- Sandy Jordan, Citizen.

Mr. Mayor, I present this to you as my formal resignation from the City Council of the City of Charlotte."
