There are many things that I like about living near Charlotte. 1) The city of Charlotte is a nice size, very accessible, not overwhelming but not a small town either. 2) It's a clean and well maintained city with pleasing architecture 3) Charlotte is a vibrant city with a lot to offer by way of cultural events. I enjoy the museums and the parks in and around the city. 4) In fact I enjoy the beautiful landscaping of the entire metro area. I have never lived in a state that put so much thought, time and money into landscaping. 5) I like that the city has multiple modes of public transportation and that these options are growing. This is good for the environment and for people who live and work in the area - especially the disabled and elderly. 6) And beyond the visual and cultural amenities I like the mood of the city. One of the things that helped me decide to move here when I came to check out the area was what appeared to be the comfort level between people of different races - esp black and white. I noticed things like an old white guy, waiting in line in a store, turning around and chatting it up with a young black woman. I saw what appeared to be strangers casually walk towards each other as they were entering a store. I noticed polite drivers. People just seemed to smile at each other and make eye contact more here than where I came from (Michigan). In short: The entire metro area is pleasant to the eye and has a nice feel about it. My sister had been encouraging me to move to live near her in Balto but once she came to visit she understood why I did not want to leave.

I came here right out of college, never visited Charlotte before. Impressed by the “can do” spirit that I found here. At that time, Charlotte was considered up and coming and seemed to have a very positive, progressive attitude about things. It seemed like a great place for a young person to get started. Charlotte offers all of the amenities of a big City, but still has the feel of a smaller, close knit town. It is a place that allows anyone with the desire to get involved to be able to make an impact. I love the neighborhoods and the trees, as well as the proximity to both mountains and beaches when it’s time to get away.

Reference 469 - 0.46% Coverage

Charlotte is a great place to live. While the cost of living is increasing for the City, Charlotte still is attractive to those who want to experience living in a large city without the cost of living prices such as in northern states. Most of my friends who visit Charlotte say it is a “clean” city and I could not agree more. The City does an excellent job of really ensuring the City remains beautiful and attracts tourists as well as businesses to come here. Despite growing up in a very small rural town, I immediately felt comfortable upon my move to Charlotte. Also, the City expands over a large area in and outside of the 485 loop such that you can choose the area you where you would like to live ie uptown, Matthews, Ballantyne, University, etc.
